New Novel, A Killer's Grace, Shows the Power of Forgiveness for the Unforgivable

- Recovery
- Redemption
- Romance

JUNE 8, 2016: SANTA FE, NM—Ronald Chapman, author of A Killer's Grace (ISBN 978-1-938288-75-3, $19.95, 246 pages, paperback, September 2016), tells the compelling story of one man's search for truth and his surprising empathy for a serial killer. Kevin Pitcairn, a journalist and recovering alcoholic, must face his own demons as well as he sorts out the causes of the murderer's actions. In the process, his outer journey also becomes an inner quest seeking reconciliation and redemption for his own errors.

Called a "philosophical novel" by one reviewer, A Killer's Grace has gained a number of endorsements from those who have faced their own inner challenges and also from others in recovery. To read their words, one would easily conclude the novel to be non-fiction. A Killer's Grace effectively captures that rare combination of reality and fictional form, including a love story that triggers a healing journey for Pitcairn's fiancée. The book is published by Terra Nova Books (www.TerraNovaBooks.com), an independent publisher in Santa Fe, New Mexico, whose books are distributed to the trade by SCB Distributors of Gardena, California (800) 729-6423.

Chapman has a master's degree in social welfare and is a leadership and organizational development consultant and facilitator. As an internationally accredited motivational speaker, he delivers workshops on forgiveness and spiritual healing. Among his other publications is the novel My Name Is Wonder, also published by Terra Nova Books.
